Project

Field(s) Smaller scale cooperation project

Description

This project offers an innovative approach that will allow especially young audiences a collaborative way to discover artistic stage work and it will give artistes and creators the possibility to enlarge their audience base. Our ambition is to create a link between the very popular everyday digital consumption of children and link them to real world participative experiences and performances. We wish to create a digital toolkit that would be an app or a videogame designed for students aged 10-11 years old. This digital toolkit will let them discover the performing art/ dance world. The interdisciplinary concept of the project will allow fusing high-end digital solutions with hand crafted physical experiences.
